ECB cuts rates by 25bps as expected

The ECB cut its key interest rates by 25bps yesterday. It means the deposit and the re-fi rates are now at 2.75% and 2.90%, respectively. The meeting statement continued to emphasise that the ECB will follow a "data-dependent" approach, but the overall tone of the statement/press conference indicates that the Governing Council maintains an easing bias.

The market reaction to the ECB meeting outcome was somewhat muted. Futures contracts indicate that the market is still of the view that the ECB will cut rates again in March, and lower the deposit rate to circa 2% by year end.

Aside from the ECB meeting, a busy data schedule included the first readings of Eurozone and US GDP for Q4. In the Eurozone, GDP stagnated in the quarter, meaning the economy expanded by a meagre 0.7% in 2024. Meantime, in the US, the economy grew by 2.3% annualised in Q4 (vs. +2.6% f'cast). Overall, US GDP rose by a robust 2.8% in 2024.

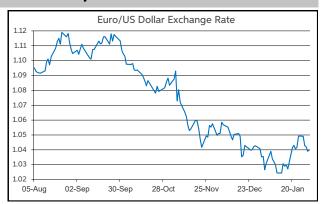

Currency-wise, the main pairs continued to operate in narrow trading ranges throughout the European session. However, the dollar strengthened overnight as President Trump threatened to implement tariffs on Canada and Mexico once again. This sees EUR/USD opens this morning down at $1.04. GBP/USD is in the lower half of $1.24-1.25. Elsewhere, EUR/GBP remains in the top half of the 83-84p corridor.

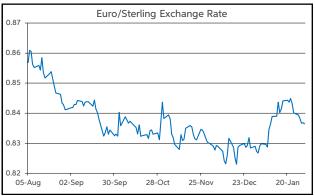

Turning to the day ahead, the main release of note will be US core -PCE inflation for December. The consensus is for core-PCE to remain at 2.8%. In the Eurozone, the flash estimate of German HICP inflation for January will also be in focus.
